Meeting evolving needs with flexibility and expertise

When BNP Paribas Fortis planned the construction of their new headquarters, the priorities were clear: they needed a flexible, scalable, and future-proof access control solution. The new Warandeberg Montagne du Parc building is not only architecturally impressive but also provides the perfect setting for a modern, technologically advanced system like Nedap's AEOS.

BNP Paribas Fortis chose AEOS for three reasons:

1. Ability to seamlessly integrate with other technologies
2. Easy and scalable roll-out across business sites
3. Freedom to choose their implementation partners

Loraine Beckers is Head of Customer Service in Facility Management at BNP Paribas Fortis. With a strong background in project management, she successfully led the renovation of the Warandeberg Montagne du Parc headquarters in Brussels, overseeing the integration of advanced technologies, including the AEOS access control system. Loraine's expertise in managing complex projects and her focus on customer satisfaction have made her a key figure in ensuring the ongoing success of BNP Paribas Fortis' facilities.

"We wanted an open system, one that could evolve with us as we grow. AEOS provided that. It's built to integrate seamlessly with our IT infrastructure, and we've already integrated solutions like Assa Abloy wireless locks and the Milestone video management system. AEOS is future-proof, and we have the freedom to add more technologies as our needs grow."

The building, characterized by its futuristic exoskeleton of 300 white concrete columns with green granulates, not only provides workspaces with natural light but also offers the space to integrate innovative technologies like AEOS.

Seamless integration and unmatched support

The decision to switch to AEOS also aligned perfectly with the bank's broader goals of innovation and operational efficiency. AEOS's open architecture provided the flexibility to integrate additional solutions, such as visitor management systems, while also ensuring that the bank was no longer locked into a single vendor for software, hardware, installation, or maintenance.

Throughout the entire process, Nedap's dedication to customer support was evident. Loraine remarks, "The Nedap team was incredibly supportive. Whether it was helping us solve problems or adapting AEOS to meet our needs, the team's commitment was outstanding."

The power of partnership: a successful rollout across 59 locations

Since the implementation of AEOS at their headquarters, BNP Paribas Fortis has expanded the solution to 59 other locations. AEOS is also being implemented for smart parking management at offices, using the BNP Paribas Fortis bank card as the access pass.

"Choosing AEOS was the right decision. It's scalable and flexible, exactly what we needed to manage our access control system across multiple locations. The support from Nedap was essential in ensuring the success of this project."

Looking ahead: a long-term partnership

As BNP Paribas Fortis continues to grow and evolve, the bank's commitment to innovation and flexibility remains at the core of their strategy. With AEOS, they have a solution that is not only adaptable to their current needs but also future-ready, supporting their ongoing transformation.

"We're proud to be part of their journey. Nedap is committed to providing continued support as AEOS is rolled out across additional locations, ensuring BNP Paribas Fortis has the best security solutions as their needs change and grow."

"We're pleased BNP Paribas Fortis put its trust in Nedap. It was a big decision to switch systems. But deciding to implement AEOS out to other office locations, in addition to its headquarters, shows they feel they've made the right choice. We look forward to continuing to support them as the project unfolds and AEOS is fully utilized."
